The X in X-Teams, stand for multiplication, here are just a few stories from these many leaders.

Xteam A, 15 students committed to outreach and discipleship of students all over campus. They meet with Mark and Brenda at 5:30 Tuesday for community and development.

Xteam B, 15 more students committed to outreach and discipleship of students all over campus. They meet with Mark and Brenda at 7:30 Tuesday for community and development.

Greek Xteam, 13 students committed to reaching out to reach their Greek house and other Fraternities and Sororities.

I met with David (lower left) to discuss him starting a community group in Naismith Hall and joining our X-Team group for this Fall. His reply was positive, "Yes, I would love to, if it hadn't been for the group that reached out to me last year I don't know where I would be. It totally redirected me to Christ my freshman year."

Cooper Alton went with us to Chile this summer and now has helped start "Bridges" a ministry with CCC to international students at KU. Cooper is fluent in Spanish and can often be seen hanging out with various international students at the union.

Amanda has started coming to our Greek x-team and just shared last week that she came to faith in Christ last Spring after a semester of involvement. She was introduced to CCC and Christ when she met Chris, during an outreach on campus. Next she was encouraged by her Dorm RA who way involved in CRU and finally was mentored by one of our Senior ladies. Now she wants to help lead a community Group in her Sorority.

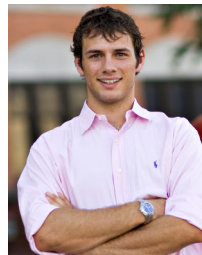

Ryan Brack, an ROTC Cadet, went to our Denver Christmas conference and there got a vision for starting an ROTC Community Group. This year it is back and growing and called Valor. Ryan is pictured right with his new fiancé, Jessica.

Chelsea Gnatowski, left in picture, spent her summer on a summer project with CCC and is now co-leading a coed Community group in Templin and Lewis Residence hall. The group is already growing and is made up of Christians and non-Christians, a desire for many of our groups.

I (Mark) just visited the Community group in the Beta Fraternity. Lake is leading this group, reaching out to the house freshman and studying 1st Peter this semester.

Katie starts 9th grade. It seems like the milestones just come faster every year. She has grown another inch, started a tennis lesson program and is growing into a beautiful young lady in every way. Thanks for your support and prayers for our family and ministry.
